SUITS & SAYINGS

ET's weekly roundup of the wackiest whispers and murmurs in corporate corridors & policy parlours

Check-in Troubles

If you have been cribbing about the ease of doing business, or lack thereof, this saga from the Big Apple might just blow your mind. A little over a year ago, this business tycoon bought a once-iconic hotel in midtown Manhattan from its Gulf owners for several hundred million dollars. A mansion near London, a smattering of premier hotel investments around the world – many wondered if this was to be a new line of business. But that's not why we are retelling this saga. Only last week, we gather, did all the paperwork get finally done. It seems even transferring the liquor licence from one owner to the next took months. Blame it on the Covid backlog or simply bureaucratic ennui, even multi-billionaires face the music or shall we say, the blues, from time to time.

The Next Big Bet

This high-octane founder famous for jumping on to the next big thing even before one idea gets fully realised is the latest to fall for AI and Chat GPT. He's scouting for electrifying ideas in the space and has instructed his own family office to look out for such opportunities even as he juggles between fundraising at both his key business platforms as well as a potential IPO. Some boys want to have it all – the cake, the icing and even the cherry on the top.

Jet-Setting Romance

J Christopher Flowers, CEO and chairman of JC Flowers & Co. was in India last weekend to celebrate the completion of JC Flowers Asset Reconstruction Company's single largest acquisition of stressed loans in India. After acquiring loans worth ₹48,000 crore from Yes Bank, JC Flowers is now among the top five ARCs in India. Chris Flowers was accompanied by wife Anna Flowers and the top team of JC Flowers that was involved in closing the transaction. But that's not why we want to raise a toast. A birdie tells us that while the billionaire asset manager and former Goldman honcho was taking his power nap on his way from New York to India, his wife – a qualified pilot – was among the two pilots who flew their private jet.

Ishh Style Bhai

If the Kardashians can have it, so can our Shark Tank hosts. One of them seems to have started taking himself a tad too seriously since his appearance on the reality TV show. Recently, upon bumping into an old associate at the airport, instead of catching up, the young gent

Double Role

Last Friday, the Taj Mahal Mumbai was the centre of attraction for anyone who mattered with two mega events taking place simultaneously. The book launch of one of India's most well-spoken babus had the entire business community cheering at the heavily publicised event, which even had TV stations cut to it live. Across the hallway at the Crystal Room was the 50th wedding anniversary of one of Pune's first citizens Madhur Bajaj, who was hosting a private, more exclusive gathering for select friends of the family. Some of the guests were busy crisscrossing the two venues to make an appearance at both.

Tax Man Cometh

The tax raid on a large domestic pharmaceutical company following its successful listing last week has raised fears in the pharma industry. Just a couple of months ago, a large Indian drug maker saw its longest I-T raid where sleuths stayed on for almost five days at their premises scanning various documents. This company is still awaiting a response from the tax department following the raid. Last year too, there were high-profile raids. As per the grapevine, there is suspicion within the government that certain drug makers are enjoying too high trade margins in the domestic formulations market.

seemed far more keen to buy shades at a sunglass store, fearing he would be mobbed by fans. Why keep so many bodyguards if they can't protect their client from the hoi polloi? If only he paid more attention to his products than his self-image, rued a VC onlooker in the business lounge. We wonder if that fund is on the unicorn's cap table.

Airtel, Reliance Jio Use Divergent Strategies to Catch Eyeballs in IPL

Urvu.Malvania1@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: Bharti Airtel and Reliance Jio are making a dash for consumer eyeballs with the IPL T20 cricket tournament that's currently under way. Their strategies are different – Airtel is using the IPL to market its 5G services. Jio is employing it to raise awareness about the features of its new postpaid plans as well as the Jio-Dive virtual reality headset.

"With just three (telecom) players left, and all of them established, the IPL platform now serves for schemed advertising, rather than generic brand building," said Harish Bijoer, founder, Harish Bijoer Consults.

Media spending on the IPL by the telcos is more targeted and tactical than before, he said. Reliance Industries president Kiran Thomas said at the company's recent earnings call that telecom unit Jio will make a concerted play for a larger market share in the postpaid segment "where the incumbents (Airtel, Vodafone Idea) have a leadership position."

Jio is also a commercial on-ground partner for all the 10 teams in the IPL, an association it's leveraging through advertising spots to showcase the different benefits under its new plans.

This translates to the two telcos using the multimedia platforms where the IPL is available to maximise the money spent on advertising. Jio has launched Jio VIP Box, which is a digital experience delivered through the JioVIPBox.com website. It has exclusive fan interactive content from all 10 IPL teams. Some experiences include taking a selfie with the teams and a photo in a team's gear (helmet, flag etc). The initiative uses green screen technology to allow users to take these photos.

Airtel has also leveraged its 5G technology through its partnership with Star Sports, the television rights owner for the IPL.

Through the association, viewers can use the Airtel 5G network to beam a digital avatar of themselves to the Star Sports studio.

Govt to Infuse ₹300-Crore Equity into Alliance Air

New Delhi: The government is set to make an equity infusion of ₹300 crore in regional carrier Alliance Air, which is facing financial headwinds, according to a senior official. Alliance Air, earlier part of Air India, is now owned by AI Assets Holding Ltd (AI-AHL), a special-purpose vehicle formed by the central government.

The disinvestment-bound Alliance Air operates around 130 flights daily. In recent months, there have been instances of strikes by pilots to protest against non-restoration of salaries to the pre-Covid level and non-payment of allowance, among other issues.

ymment of allowance, among other issues. The finance ministry has approved an equity infusion of ₹300 crore into Alliance Air, the senior civil aviation ministry official told PTI.

Flights under 'Alliance Air' brand are operated by Airline Allied Services, which changed its name to Alliance Air Aviation Ltd. The company's authorised capital is ₹2,000 crore and the paid-up capital is ₹402.25 crore, as per the latest data available with the corporate affairs ministry.

Alliance Air, which saw its net loss widen to ₹447.76 crore in fiscal 2021-22, has been grappling with financial woes. The carrier's cash loss widened to ₹224.18 crore in the financial year ended March 2022.

Four companies that were earlier part of Air India are now under AI-AHL. These are Air India Air Transport Services Ltd, Air India Engineering Services Ltd, Airline Allied Services Ltd and Hotel Corporation of India Ltd. -PTI
